

Library Resources Donations Form

The University of South Australia Library welcomes donations of books and other library materials. Donations are generally accepted for inclusion in the collections on the basis of support to the University's teaching, learning and research focus. The Library reserves the right to accept or decline donations, and to dispose of unwanted resources in accordance with its Disposal guidelines. Donated resources are only accepted on the understanding that they become the property of the Library.

You may access the Library's Donations & Gifts policy at:

Acknowledgement of donations

Donations are acknowledged in writing by the University Librarian. A bookplate acknowledging the donation is provided when the resource is processed.

All persons wishing to donate materials to the Library are requested to provide contact details to enable acknowledgement.
